RESEARCH INTERESTS

Cultural evolution; computational linguistics; linguistic typology; efficient communication; agent-based modelling; strong inference

EDUCATION

Ph.D. in Cognitive Science, Aix-Marseille University (France) 2022–2025

Thesis title: “A cultural-evolutionary account of linguistic laws” (defended on 25 of September 2025)

Supervisors: Isabelle Dautriche, Olivier Morin

Committee members: Simon Kirby, Gemma Boleda, Paula Rubio-Fernández, and Benjamin Spector

Link to text: <https://hal.science/tel-05573880>

Diplôme de l'ENS (DENS) in Sciences¹, Ecole Normale Supérieure, PSL (France) 2019–2022

Majored in Cognitive Science

M.Sc. in Cognitive Science, Ecole Normale Supérieure, PSL (France) 2019–2021

Majored in Linguistics

Thesis title: “Contact-induced changes in colexification patterns”

Supervisors: Thierry Poibeau and Alexandre François

B.A. in Fundamental and Applied Linguistics, Higher School of Economics (Russia) 2015–2019

Majored in Computational Linguistics with a minor in Mathematics

ACADEMIC POSITIONS

Junior AI fellow, PR[AI]RIE-PSAI, PSL (France) Sept. 2026 – . . .

Postdoctoral Researcher, LSCP, ENS-PSL (France) Feb. 2026 – August 2026

Doctoral Researcher, CRPN, Aix-Marseille University (France) 2022–2026

Visiting PhD student, CiMEC, University of Trento (Italy) 2024

Visiting PhD student, Centre for Language Evolution, University of Edinburgh (Scotland) 2023

THESES

A. Koshevoy. “A cultural evolutionary account of linguistic laws”. PhD thesis. Aix-Marseille University, 2025.

SUBMITTED PUBLICATIONS, PREPRINTS, AND PUBLICATIONS IN PREPARATION

A. Koshevoy, Sobchuk, and O. Morin. “Slovotvir: Grassroots reform of the Ukrainian language reveals the role of drift and selection in language change.” Accepted to PNAS Nexus.

A. Koshevoy and J. Szymanik. “Convexity bias (possibly) makes languages efficient.” Manuscript in revision.

¹Selective, research-focused master’s-level program combining advanced coursework and independent research.

A. Koshevoy, F. Mollica, and P. Rubio-Fernandez. “Gricean and Zipfian Approaches to Communicative Efficiency”. Manuscript in preparation.

A. Koshevoy. “Morphological causatives in Abaza”. Higher School of Economics Research Paper No. WP BRP 75 (2018).

PEER-REVIEWED PUBLICATIONS

A. Koshevoy, M. Hallo, R. Hall Maudslay, and O. Morin. “Short words are more likely to refer to multiple meanings across 192 language families”. Journal of Language Evolution 11 (2026).

TALKS

Conference Talks

More than 10 talks & poster presentations in international conferences and workshop in 5 countries, including:

- “A diachronic analysis of factors influencing new meaning appearance”, 59th Annual Meeting of the Societas Linguistica Europaea (Osnabrück, Germany), 2026
- “Beyond network size: How interaction structure shapes language evolution. ”, Cultural Evolution Society conference (Rabat, Morocco), 2026
- “Short words are more likely to colexify multiple meanings than long words: empirical and experimental evidence”, 58th Annual Meeting of the Societas Linguistica Europaea (Bordeaux, France), 2025
- “Slovotvir: Grassroots reform of the Ukrainian language reveals the role of drift and selection in language change”, Explaining culture: and interdisciplinary approach (Paris, France), 2025
- “Zipf’s Law of Abbreviation holds for individual characters across a broad range of writing systems”, Writing & Cognition Workshop (Ascona, Switzerland), 2024
- “Coordination, rather than pragmatics, shapes colexification when the pressure for efficiency is low”, Cognitive Science Society Meeting (Rotterdam, Netherlands), 2024
- “Slovotvir: a natural experiment in word replacement”, Computational Humanities Research (Paris, France), 2023
- “Can pragmatic reasoning explain the pressure for efficiency in communication?”, Internal and external pressures shaping language workshop (Ljubljana, Slovenia), 2023
- “Why do some words have more meanings than others? A true neutral model for the meaning-frequency correlation”, Cognitive Science Society Meeting (Sydney, Australia), 2023
- “Frequency and character complexity in 27 writing systems”, EVOLANG (Tokyo, Japan), 2022

Invited Talks

- “Language use and linguistic laws”, COLT, Pompeu Fabra University, 2026
- “What makes efficient communication efficient?”, Computational Psycholinguistics Laboratory, MIT, 2024
- “How cultural evolution and artificial languages can shed light on the origins of linguistic ambiguity?”, CiMEC, University of Trento, 2024
- “Tutorial: From Elan to Universal Dependencies”, LIFT, 2020

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

I have taught several courses, including one as the primary instructor. I hold the French “qualification” in language sciences (qualification aux fonctions de maître de conférences, section 07), which enables me to apply for assistant professor positions in France.

Instructor, Introduction to Linguistics for Data Science Autumn 2024, Spring 2026

Designed and taught an undergraduate course at CPES “Sciences de données, arts et cultures” (32/46 hours, PSL/Lycée Louis-le-Grand)

Guest lecturer, Collegio Clesio seminar Spring 2024

Invited lecture “Introduction to data-driven linguistics” (2 hours, University of Trento)

Guest lecturer, Language and Cognition Autumn 2023

Invited lecture and seminar at the Cognitive Science Master (4 hours, Aix-Marseille University)

ACADEMIC SERVICE

- Supervised 3 undergrad students and 1 master student at ENS-PSL and Aix-Marseille University
- Reviewer for Proceedings B, Cognitive Science, Open Mind, Cognition, Language and Cognition, Journal of Language Evolution, PLOS One.
- Reviewer (2024, 2025), and meta-reviewer (2026) for the Cognitive Science Society conference.
- Co-organizer of the “Efficiency principles in non-linguistic information transmission” workshop (MPI-EVA, Leipzig, Germany)

GRANTS AND AWARDS

Max Planck Society Ph.D. scholarship, Max Planck Institute for Geoanthropology 2023

Contrat Doctoral Spécifique Normalien, ENS-PSL 2022-2025

International Selection Scholarship, ENS-PSL 2019-2022

Increased State Academic Scholarship, Higher School of Economics 2019

SKILLS

Programming: Python (Scikit-Learn, Numpy, PyTorch, transformers, BayesFlow, Flask), R (ggplot2, lme4, igraph, brms), Julia, SQL, shell, git, JavaScript, HTML, CSS
